

Exploration on Trust System of Rural Land

ZHANG Li-hua, ZHAO Zhi-yi(Dept. of Political Science and Law, Beijing Agriculture College, Beijing 102206, China)

The basic value of trust system lies in realizing the benefit right of a beneficiary, which is usually conducted with the trust property as a core and by the trustee's dealing with or managing the trust property. Bringing the trust system into our rural land capital management can be a highlight in the market development of the rural land circulation. However, constructing the land trust system in the countryside, especially creating the system must be done under the prerequisite that the present rural land policies stay steady. As we will see, the creation is specialized in the trustees and the trust properties in rural land trust.
