THE LONDON SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS AND POLITICAL SCIENCE

DEPOSIT

How bad will Brexit really be for the UK?

Published Version

DOWNLOAD

SHARE

COPY

Gudgin, G. (2017). How bad will Brexit really be for the UK?

SHARE

Abstract

Long-term forecasts claiming that leaving the EU with no deal on trade would be economically disastrous undermine the UK's optimal negotiating strategy, writes Graham Gudgin (Policy Exchange). He points out significant flaws in such forecasts and shows why the estimates they table cannot be accepted as accurate. The great majority of the economic forecasts have concluded that Brexit will damage the ...

THE LONDON SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS AND POLITICAL SCIENCE

eprints CoSECTOR UNIVERSITY OF LONDON

Contact Us

Policies

Accessibility Statement

LSE Research Online is powered by EPrints 3.4 and is hosted and managed by CoSector, University of London

LSE Research Online supports OAI 2.0