

Home > Public Choice > Article

Gender Bias and Selection Bias in House Elections

| Published: October 2000

| Volume 105, pages 41–59, (2000) Cite this article

Public Choice

Aims and scope →

Your privacy, your choice

We use essential cookies to make sure the site can function. We, and our 96 partners, also use optional cookies and similar technologies for advertising, personalisation of content, usage analysis, and social media.

By accepting optional cookies, you consent to allowing us and our partners to store and access personal data on your device, such as browsing behaviour and unique identifiers. Some third parties are outside of the European Economic Area, with varying standards of data protection. See our privacy policy for more information on the use of your personal data. Your consent choices apply to springer.com and applicable subdomains.

You can find further information, and change your preferences via 'Manage preferences'. You can also change your preferences or withdraw consent at any time via 'Your privacy choices', found in the footer of every page.

We use cookies and similar technologies for the following purposes:

- > Store and/or access information on a device
- > Personalised advertising and content, advertising and content measurement, audience research and services development

Accept all cookies

Reject optional cookies

Manage preferences

Access this article

Log in via an institution →

Subscribe and save

✓ Springer+ Basic

€32.70 /Month

- Get 10 units per month
- Download Article/Chapter or eBook
- 1 Unit = 1 Article or 1 Chapter
- Cancel anytime

Subscribe now →

Buy Now

Your privacy, your choice

We use essential cookies to make sure the site can function. We, and our 96 partners, also use optional cookies and similar technologies for advertising, personalisation of content, usage analysis, and social media.

By accepting optional cookies, you consent to allowing us and our partners to store and access personal data on your device, such as browsing behaviour and unique identifiers. Some third parties are outside of the European Economic Area, with varying standards of data protection. See our privacy policy for more information on the use of your personal data. Your consent choices apply to springer.com and applicable subdomains.

You can find further information, and change your preferences via 'Manage preferences'. You can also change your preferences or withdraw consent at any time via 'Your privacy choices', found in the footer of every page.

We use cookies and similar technologies for the following purposes:

Store and/or access information on a device

Personalised advertising and content, advertising and content measurement, audience research and services development

Accept all cookies

Reject optional cookies

Manage preferences

Explore related subjects

Discover the latest articles and news from researchers in related subjects, suggested using machine learning.

Gender and HealthGender EconomicsParty ResearchPolitics and GenderSexual SelectionSexual Dimorphism

References

Ansolabehere, S. and Snyder, J. (1996a). The inter-election dynamics of campaign finance: U.S. House elections, 1980 to 1994. Unpublished manuscript, presented at the 1996 meetings of the American Political Science Association in San Francisco, CA.

Your privacy, your choice

We use essential cookies to make sure the site can function. We, and our 96 partners, also use optional cookies and similar technologies for advertising, personalisation of content, usage analysis, and social media.

By accepting optional cookies, you consent to allowing us and our partners to store and access personal data on your device, such as browsing behaviour and unique identifiers. Some third parties are outside of the European Economic Area, with varying standards of data protection. See our privacy policy for more information on the use of your personal data. Your consent choices apply to springer.com and applicable subdomains.

You can find further information, and change your preferences via 'Manage preferences'. You can also change your preferences or withdraw consent at any time via 'Your privacy choices', found in the footer of every page.

We use cookies and similar technologies for the following purposes:

Store and/or access information on a device

Personalised advertising and content, advertising and content measurement, audience research and services development

Accept all cookiesReject optional cookiesManage preferences

Darcy, R., Welch, S. and Clark, J. (1994). Women, elections and representation. Lincoln: University of Nebraska Press.

Erickson, R. and Palfrey, T. (1998). Campaign spending and incumbency: An alternative simultaneous equations approach. Journal of Politics 60: 355–373.

Flammers, I. (1997). Women's political voice. Philadelphia: Temple University

Your privacy, your choice

We use essential cookies to make sure the site can function. We, and our 96 partners, also use optional cookies and similar technologies for advertising, personalisation of content, usage analysis, and social media.

By accepting optional cookies, you consent to allowing us and our partners to store and access personal data on your device, such as browsing behaviour and unique identifiers. Some third parties are outside of the European Economic Area, with varying standards of data protection. See our privacy policy for more information on the use of your personal data. Your consent choices apply to springer.com and applicable subdomains.

You can find further information, and change your preferences via 'Manage preferences'. You can also change your preferences or withdraw consent at any time via 'Your privacy choices', found in the footer of every page.

We use cookies and similar technologies for the following purposes:

Store and/or access information on a device

Personalised advertising and content, advertising and content measurement, audience research and services development

Accept all cookies

Reject optional cookies

Manage preferences

Reestimating the effects of campaign spending in House elections. American Journal of Political Science 32: 884–907.

Google Scholar

Groseclose, T. and Stewart, C. (1998). The value of committee seats in the House, 1947-1991. American Journal of Political Science 42: 453–474.

Google Scholar

Heckman, J. (1979). Sample selection bias as a specification error. Econometrica 47: 153–161.

Google Scholar

Your privacy, your choice

We use essential cookies to make sure the site can function. We, and our 96 partners, also use optional cookies and similar technologies for advertising, personalisation of content, usage analysis, and social media.

By accepting optional cookies, you consent to allowing us and our partners to store and access personal data on your device, such as browsing behaviour and unique identifiers. Some third parties are outside of the European Economic Area, with varying standards of data protection. See our privacy policy for more information on the use of your personal data. Your consent choices apply to springer.com and applicable subdomains.

You can find further information, and change your preferences via 'Manage preferences'. You can also change your preferences or withdraw consent at any time via 'Your privacy choices', found in the footer of every page.

We use cookies and similar technologies for the following purposes:

Store and/or access information on a device

Personalised advertising and content, advertising and content measurement, audience research and services development

Accept all cookies

Reject optional cookies

Manage preferences

Kahn, K. (1996). The political consequences of being a woman. New York: Columbia University Press.

Google Scholar

Krasno, J. and Green, D. (1988). Preempting quality challengers in House elections. Journal of Politics 50: 920-936.

Google Scholar

Leeper, M. (1991). The impact of prejudice on female candidates. American Politics Quarterly 19: 248-261.

Google Scholar

Your privacy, your choice

We use essential cookies to make sure the site can function. We, and our 96 partners, also use optional cookies and similar technologies for advertising, personalisation of content, usage analysis, and social media.

By accepting optional cookies, you consent to allowing us and our partners to store and access personal data on your device, such as browsing behaviour and unique identifiers. Some third parties are outside of the European Economic Area, with varying standards of data protection. See our privacy policy for more information on the use of your personal data. Your consent choices apply to springer.com and applicable subdomains.

You can find further information, and change your preferences via 'Manage preferences'. You can also change your preferences or withdraw consent at any time via 'Your privacy choices', found in the footer of every page.

We use cookies and similar technologies for the following purposes:

Store and/or access information on a device

Personalised advertising and content, advertising and content measurement, audience research and services development

Accept all cookies

Reject optional cookies

Manage preferences

Milyo, J. (1998). The electoral effects of campaign spending in House elections. Los Angeles: Citizens' Research Foundation.

Google Scholar

Milyo, J. (1999). What do candidates maximize (and why should anyone care)? Unpublished manuscript, presented at the 1999 meetings of the Public Choice Society in New Orleans, LA.

Squire, P. (1989). Competition and uncontested seats in U.S. House elections. Legislative Studies Quarterly 14: 281-295.

Google Scholar

Your privacy, your choice

We use essential cookies to make sure the site can function. We, and our 96 partners, also use optional cookies and similar technologies for advertising, personalisation of content, usage analysis, and social media.

By accepting optional cookies, you consent to allowing us and our partners to store and access personal data on your device, such as browsing behaviour and unique identifiers. Some third parties are outside of the European Economic Area, with varying standards of data protection. See our privacy policy for more information on the use of your personal data. Your consent choices apply to springer.com and applicable subdomains.

You can find further information, and change your preferences via 'Manage preferences'. You can also change your preferences or withdraw consent at any time via 'Your privacy choices', found in the footer of every page.

We use cookies and similar technologies for the following purposes:

Store and/or access information on a device

Personalised advertising and content, advertising and content measurement, audience research and services development

Accept all cookies

Reject optional cookies

Manage preferences

Rights and permissions

Reprints and permissions

About this article

Cite this article

Milyo, J., Schosberg, S. Gender Bias and Selection Bias in House Elections. Public Choice 105, 41–59 (2000). <https://doi.org/10.1023/A:1005198906982>

Issue Date

Your privacy, your choice

We use essential cookies to make sure the site can function. We, and our 96 partners, also use optional cookies and similar technologies for advertising, personalisation of content, usage analysis, and social media.

By accepting optional cookies, you consent to allowing us and our partners to store and access personal data on your device, such as browsing behaviour and unique identifiers. Some third parties are outside of the European Economic Area, with varying standards of data protection. See our privacy policy for more information on the use of your personal data. Your consent choices apply to springer.com and applicable subdomains.

You can find further information, and change your preferences via 'Manage preferences'. You can also change your preferences or withdraw consent at any time via 'Your privacy choices', found in the footer of every page.

We use cookies and similar technologies for the following purposes:

Store and/or access information on a device

Personalised advertising and content, advertising and content measurement, audience research and services development

Accept all cookies

Reject optional cookies

Manage preferences

Publish with us

Track your research

Your privacy, your choice

We use essential cookies to make sure the site can function. We, and our 96 partners, also use optional cookies and similar technologies for advertising, personalisation of content, usage analysis, and social media.

By accepting optional cookies, you consent to allowing us and our partners to store and access personal data on your device, such as browsing behaviour and unique identifiers. Some third parties are outside of the European Economic Area, with varying standards of data protection. See our privacy policy for more information on the use of your personal data. Your consent choices apply to springer.com and applicable subdomains.

You can find further information, and change your preferences via 'Manage preferences'. You can also change your preferences or withdraw consent at any time via 'Your privacy choices', found in the footer of every page.

We use cookies and similar technologies for the following purposes:

Store and/or access information on a device

Personalised advertising and content, advertising and content measurement, audience research and services development

Accept all cookies

Reject optional cookies

Manage preferences