the search for a liberating, humanistic, and ecological reform changes the character of global civilization, leading to global solidarity, mutual cultural enrichment, and economic ties. As shown in this chapter, an important precondition for this development is a clear definition of Sustainable Development, a term consisting of two elements: One element depicting stability and another element depicting a process of change. Thus, “Sustainable Development” is a development which manages to preserve existing essential items, systems, and values while adapting to new conditions in a flexible way.
