The remainder of the chapter outlines potentially fruitful areas for future research into how these mechanisms may respond to the tax system.

The authors thank participants in the Symposium on Tax and Corporate Governance at the Max Planck Institute for Intellectual Property, Competition and Tax Law in Munich, and seminar participants at Harvard Law School and UCLA Law School, for helpful comments. Desai acknowledges the financial support of the Division of Research of Harvard Business School.

27 In the following, we limit our attention to the for-profit sector. It is worth briefly noting that the tax system is particularly important to governance of non-profit organizations. For example, tax returns for non-profits are made public and tax benefits can be contingent on operational decisions (levels of charitable activities) or financing decisions (payout decisions for foundations). For more on the governance of non-profits, see DESAI/YETMAN, Constraining
