One size doesn't fit all: Deal breaker issues in the failed US-SACU free trade negotiations

“This volume is part of a larger effort to raise awareness among members of the South African business community of the importance to their own interests of the issues at stake in an FTA negotiation, and of the possibilities inherent in compromise. It seeks to assist negotiators to become active participants in both the TIDCA and the eventual FTA negotiating process. It also examines the views of South African business people on the potential threats and opportunities, for their firms, of a fully fledged FTA”
