Notes

<sup>2</sup> Seven UN agencies joined together in 2010 to create the United Nations Value Chain Development Group in an initiative that highlights the broadening appeal of value chain approaches in development practice (Neilson, Pritchard, and Yeung 2014).

<sup>7</sup> The ICA consisted of a series of agreements beginning in 1962 between a group of exporting and importing countries aimed at maintaining stable and relatively high prices.

<sup>8</sup> Throughout the ICA, exports tended to be channeled through a single state marketing institution in coffee-producing countries.

<sup>10</sup> These are largely funded by external donors, and the organizations deliver programs and services aimed at developing the smallholder coffee sector in Tanzania. The projects seek to improve the quality of smallholder coffee and market it externally as speciality coffee.

<sup>11</sup> Consumer prices for inputs and food have risen for a number of reasons in Tanzania. One can associate the price increases with changes in global prices from the mid-2000s to 2013, particularly the increase in the oil price, which has fed into the costs of production (Ghosh 2010). The rise in input prices is also a result of changes to the domestic sale and pricing, with liberalization resulting in fewer subsidized inputs available to producers (Bargawi 2015).
