Quality assurance and evaluation (QAE) in Scotland: promoting self-evaluation within and beyond the country

Pages 179-193 | Received 30 May 2008, Accepted 01 Oct 2008, Published online: 20 Mar 2009

Abstract

This article looks at policy for quality assurance and evaluation in Scotland, its history and more recent developments, and in particular, at the emphasis on school self-evaluation. It examines the history of the concept, its constituent elements and the role of the Inspectorate in establishing it. Further, the article discusses the Scottish self-evaluation model as a means of promoting the country's distinctive identity in education within a European frame. It discusses the role of the Standing International Conference of Inspectorates as a major forum for the transmission of ideas about self-evaluation that illuminates the role of networks in promoting Europeanisation.
