Notes

1. This article focuses upon politically invoked expectation gaps but the impetus for such schisms can emerge from elsewhere. Such causes are not, however, the focus of this article.
2. Whilst other forms of participation can be identified (Fung 2003), deliberative and participatory democracy represent the dominant wings of the literature. This focus is therefore deemed most illustrative, but this does not prevent the future expansion of this framework in line with other conceptions of participation.
3. This approach could also be adapted to focus on more instrumental concerns such as expectations of service delivery in local government but we feel it provides an innovative technique for the analysis of democratic initiatives.
4. It is in this approach that they participate in this initiatives, be
5. This form of participation is not limited, limited
