Abstract

Janet Townsend is a Research Fellow in Geography at the University of Durham. Her interest in NGOs came from women pioneer settlers in Latin American rainforests, when Mexican respondents proved to see NGOs as the best prospective outside help.

Emma Mawdsley lectures at Birkbeck College, University of London. In addition to her NGO research, she is working on the environmental beliefs and behaviours of India's middle classes.

Gina Porter is working with Emma Mawdsley and Janet Townsend on a joint study of NGO-state relations in Ghana and India. Her other current research focuses on market access, market institutions, and related urban food-supply issues in Ghana, Nigeria, and Zambia.

Acknowledgements

The research reported in this paper was funded by DFID, but the views and opinions expressed are those of the authors alone. DFID supports policies, programmes, and projects to promote international development and poverty reduction. We thank our collaborators Fatima Alikhan (Osmania University, Hyderabad, India), Elizabeth Ardayfio-Schandorf (University of Legon, Ghana), Saraswati Raju (Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi, India), Emma Zapata (Colegio de Postgraduados, Mexico), Brian Pratt, and the late Peter Oakley (INTRAC, UK). Our deepest thanks to the NGO staff and key informants who have made this publication possible by being so generous with their knowledge. Thanks also to Jo Maher and Su Fei Tan for reading a draft of this paper and making suggestions.
