We Care About Your Privacy

We and our 861 partners store and access personal data, like browsing data or unique identifiers, on your device. Selecting "I Accept" enables tracking technologies to support the purposes shown under "we and our partners process data to provide," whereas selecting "Reject All" or withdrawing your consent will disable them. If trackers are disabled, some content and ads you see may not be as relevant to you. You can resurface this menu to change your choices or withdraw consent at any time by clicking the ["privacy preferences"] link on the bottom of the webpage [or the floating icon on the bottom-left of the webpage, if applicable]. Your choices will have effect within our Website. For more details, refer to our Privacy Policy. Here

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

We would like to thank the anonymous reviewers of the paper for their helpful suggestions.

Notes

1. This paper focuses on the prospects and position of a group that, in principle, has the resources and motives to make decisions about financial products as a way of illustrating some of the fundamental problems around the democratization of finance. Space limits do not allow us to discuss the implications for particular groups who may face specific problems: see, for instance, Ginn et al. \(2001\) on gender issues in pensions or Kempson et al. \(2000\) for analysis of financial exclusion and the experienced of groups such as certain ethnic minorities or single mothers.
