

Venture Capital >

An International Journal of Entrepreneurial Finance

Volume 10, 2008 - Issue 2

3,166 Views | 127 CrossRef citations to date | 0 Altmetric

Articles

Business angels and value added: what do we know and where do we go?

Diamanto Politis

Pages 127-147 | Accepted 01 Sep 2007, Published online: 15 Apr 2008

Cite this article <https://doi.org/10.1080/13691060801946147>

Sample our Economics, Finance,
Business & Industry Journals
>> Sign in here to start your access to the latest two volumes for 14 days

Full Article

Figures & data

References

Citations

Metrics

Reprints & Permissions

Read this article

Share

Abstract

Business angels have been highlighted as important stakeholders for potential high-growth ventures. Extant empirical research provides evidence that they not only contribute with money but also bring added value to the ventures in which they have invested. However, despite the reported benefits of the value added provided by these investors there are very few studies that try to conceptualize this important issue. The present study seeks to meet this shortcoming by presenting a review of literature and research on business angels and value added. The overall objective is to recognize the range of value added activities that business angels have been reported to perform, aggregate the findings into a set of distinct but complementary value adding roles, and then link these roles to theoretical perspectives that explain why they have the potential to contribute to added value. Four different value added roles performed by informal investors are presented together with an explanation of how they can be seen as complementary to each other. The following discussion is then used to guide future studies of business angels and value added towards areas where our knowledge is still limited.

Keywords:

- business angels
- value added
- informal venture capital

Notes

1. The definition of business angels varies significantly in the literature (Kelly 2007). In this study I have used this broad definition in order to be able to capture the phenomenon of value added as widely as possible. Although this may compromise the rigidity of the findings this choice was considered satisfactory, given the exploratory aim and purpose of the study.
2. Even if it is generally acknowledged that business angels are value adding investors who play a vital role for the development of new ventures it is important to point out that not all research agrees with the generality of this statement. Hence, although it can be assumed the larger majority of business angels have the potential to add value to their portfolio firms through their hands-on involvement scholars should equally be aware that this ability could differ depending on their prior management and entrepreneurial experience and the type of involvement that usually is performed (e.g. Sørheim and Landström 2001).
3. Growth in sales generally requires capital investments, which can have a negative impact on firm efficiency/liquidity (Murphy, Trailer, and Hill 1996).

Related Research Data

When do venture capitalists add value?

Source: Journal of Business Venturing

Preface

Source: International Studies of Management and Organization

Editors' Introduction: Habitual Entrepreneurs and Angel Investors

Source: Entrepreneurship Theory and Practice

The survival of venture capital backed companies

Source: Venture Capital

Informal risk capital in Sweden and some international comparisons

Source: Journal of Business Venturing

After the cash arrives: A comparative study of venture capital and private investor involvement in entrepreneurial firms

Source: Journal of Business Venturing

Angels: personal investors in the venture capital market

Source: Entrepreneurship and Regional Development

Related research

People also read

Recommended articles

Cited by 127

Information for

Authors

R&D professionals

Editors

Librarians

Societies

Opportunities

Reprints and e-prints

Advertising solutions

Accelerated publication

Corporate access solutions

Open access

Overview

Open journals

Open Select

Dove Medical Press

F1000Research

Help and information

Help and contact

Newsroom

All journals

Books

Keep up to date

Register to receive personalised research and resources by email

Sign me up

Copyright © 2025 Informa UK Limited Privacy policy Cookies Terms & conditions

Accessibility

 Taylor and Francis Group

Registered in England & Wales No. 01072954
5 Howick Place | London | SW1P 1WG