

Cultural Trends >

Volume 26, 2017 - Issue 4

542 | 1 | 1
Views CrossRef citations to date Altmetric

Multiple Perspectives on the Trump Administration's Attitude to Cultural Funding

The ultimate calamity scenario in US arts funding: eliminating the national endowment for the arts

Felicia K. Knight

Pages 341-344 | Published online: 29 Sep 2017

 Cite this article  <https://doi.org/10.1080/09548963.2017.1383001>

Sample our Humanities
Journals

>> Sign in here to start your access to the latest two volumes for 14 days

 Full Article Figures & data References Citations Metrics Reprints & Permissions

Read this article

About Cookies On This Site

We and our partners use cookies to enhance your website experience, learn how our site is used, offer personalised features, measure the effectiveness of our services, and tailor content and ads to your interests while you navigate on the web or interact with us across devices. You can choose to accept all of these cookies or only essential cookies. To learn more or manage your preferences, click "Settings". For further information about the data we collect from you, please see our Privacy Policy.

Accept All

Essential Only

Settings

cuts to the NEA budget will make it more difficult to achieve these goals, but it will not fundamentally divert the city.

New York City is only the most striking example of the increased commitment of states and localities to viewing culture and the arts as a fundamental dimension of social well-being. Cities have for many years seen their cultural institutions as a way to promote tourism and economic development. Increasingly, they are coming to understand that every neighborhood has cultural assets that can improve the lives of those who live in the city, as well as those who visit.

As Engels and Marx noted, history repeats itself, first as tragedy and then as farce. The current federal administration's efforts to undermine public funding for the arts, like its efforts to deny climate change, revive the coal industry, and reverse the gains of black and Latino residents, are unlikely to have a lasting effect on the nation. Rather, the continuing threat to the cultural sector and its ability to contribute to the social wellbeing of the nation's residents is the specter of social inequality. The forces driving this inequality remain deeply entrenched in our economy and society. Although we can be heartened that our political leaders are no longer ignoring the issue, it remains an open question if political commitment alone is powerful enough to reverse the impact of inequality on our neighborhoods and cultural communities.

References

- Hodgson, G. (1976). America: In our time. Garden City, NY: Doubleday.
- Johnson, L. B. (1965). Remarks at the signing of the arts and humanities bill, September 29, 1965. Online by Gerhard Peters & John T. Woolley. The American presidency project. Retrieved from <http://www.presidency.ucsb.edu/ws/?pid=27279>
- Stern, M. J., & Seifert, S. C. (2017). The social wellbeing of New York City's neighborhoods: The contribution of culture and the arts. Philadelphia, PA: Social Impact of the Arts Project. Retrieved from http://repository.upenn.edu/siap_culture_nyc/1

PERSPECTIVE

The ultimate calamity scenario in US arts funding: eliminating the national endowment for the arts

Felicia K. Knight

The Knight Canney Group, Portland, ME, US

Despite our ancestral beginnings as mostly English colonies and a shared love of Shakespeare, the US has a decidedly different mechanism for government funding of the arts. "Different" can mean better or worse, depending on who's talking, but regardless of which system is under discussion, chances are there is lamentation aplenty that the funding isn't enough.

About Cookies On This Site

We and our partners use cookies to enhance your website experience, learn how our site is used, offer personalised features, measure the effectiveness of our services, and tailor content and ads to your interests while you navigate on the web or interact with us across devices. You can choose to accept all of these cookies or only essential cookies. To learn more or manage your preferences, click "Settings". For further information about the data we collect from you, please see our Privacy Policy.

Accept All

Essential Only

Settings out-the-nea

Log in via your institution

> Access through your institution

Log in to Taylor & Francis Online

> Log in

Restore content access

> Restore content access for purchases made as guest

Purchase options *

Save for later

PDF download + Online access

- 48 hours access to article PDF & online version
- Article PDF can be downloaded
- Article PDF can be printed

USD 53.00

 Add to cart

Issue Purchase

- 30 days online access to complete issue
- Article PDFs can be downloaded
- Article PDFs can be printed

USD 234.00

 Add to cart

* Local tax

Related

About Cookies On This Site

We and our partners use cookies to enhance your website experience, learn how our site is used, offer personalised features, measure the effectiveness of our services, and tailor content and ads to your interests while you navigate on the web or interact with us across devices. You can choose to accept all of these cookies or only essential cookies. To learn more or manage your preferences, click "Settings". For further information about the data we collect from you, please see our Privacy Policy.

Accept All

Essential Only

Settings

Information for

AuthorsR&D professionalsEditorsLibrariansSocieties

Opportunities

Reprints and e-printsAdvertising solutionsAccelerated publicationCorporate access solutions

Open access

OverviewOpen journalsOpen SelectDove Medical PressF1000Research

Help and information

Help and contactNewsroomAll journalsBooks

Keep up to date

Register to receive personalised research and resources by email

Sign me up

About Cookies On This Site

We and our partners use cookies to enhance your website experience, learn how our site is used, offer personalised features, measure the effectiveness of our services, and tailor content and ads to your interests while you navigate on the web or interact with us across devices. You can choose to accept all of these cookies or only essential cookies. To learn more or manage your preferences, click "Settings". For further information about the data we collect from you, please see our Privacy Policy.

Accept AllEssential OnlySettings