Back to Back’s Ganesh versus the Third Reich (2011) consolidated the company’s reputation as an ensemble of international standing, following acclaimed earlier tours of small metal objects (2005) and Food Court (2008).¹ As Jane Goodall observes, members of the company’s acting ensemble ‘share the outsider experience of being excluded from the norm through being perceived as people with a disability. They know what it is to live with the burden of a category identity’.² For Bryoni Trezise and Caroline Wake, this ‘emphasis on perceived disability destabilizes the binary between ability and disability and signals an interest in the visual and cultural construction of these categories’.³ Yoni Prior, drawing on an unpublished interview with Artistic Director Bruce Gladwin, comments that this also ‘addresses a contradiction in the way that the company is seen. The company works with artists with formal diagnoses of intellectual disability, but the work they make is “so intelligent”’.⁴ This engagement with contradiction is characteristic of the company’s work, and in this article I will offer a dialectical reading
